Rain Or Shine, Bazaar Goes On This Weekend

Sixteen religious, civic and fraternal organizations will operate booths at the Sidewalk Bazaar Friday and Saturday, co-operating with the annual Andover Chamber of Commerce retail sales promotion.

Activities for the two-day event are scheduled for both days beginning at 10 a.m. and will include a fish chowder supper, a Clan MacPherson bagpipe concert, a strawberry festival, and rock-n-roll and folksinging session, a bicycle and doll carriage parade and an antique car rally.

In addition, A. B. Sutherland Co. will sponsor day-long appearances of the now familiar organ grinder and his monkey. Village Annex Texaco will offer stagecoach rides and four mechanical rides will be available in the lot adjacent to Michael Jay's, and the Andover Savings Bank will provide additional music throughout the day Friday.

Friday evening events are scheduled as follows: 5-7 p.m., a fish chowder supper in the municipal parking lot. In the event of rain, chowder will be served at the Bay State Bank; 6-8 p.m., Clan MacPherson performance in front of the Bay State Bank; 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., a strawberry festival at Free Christian Church; 8-9 p.m., music outside Macarney's by the Invaders and the Carpet-baggers.

Children under 12 are permitted as contestants in a bicycle and doll carriage decorating contest and parade which is to line up at Punchard Ave. at 10:45 a.m. Saturday and head off down Main St. at 11 a.m. Prizes will be given for the best entries.

Also on Saturday, from 12 noon until 3 p.m., the antique car rally on Main Street between Elm and Chestnut.

Organizations will locate their booths on Main St. as follows: Alpha Phi Chi Sisterhood (A.P.C.)

Danton Offer Halts Mon. Town Meeting

Town officials are busy assessing the Danton Realty offer of an Elm Square site for Town Hall, a last minute proposal that caused the Board of Selectmen to halt Town Meeting action on an earlier plan to locate the office building at the Shaw and Killorin properties on Main St.

A quorum of 406 assembled to debate this and the five other articles on a short warrant.

Board Chairman Philip K. Allen told the meeting of weekend events which "suddenly and substantially established the possibility of a (town hall) site which had been considered" and discarded, not only because of the possible cost but because of the potential loss of tax revenue.

The location to which he referred was that of the former Square and Compass Club, now owned by Danton Realty Trust and earmarked for construction of a building to house the headquarters of Standard International Corp.

What the deal involves is a switch with Danton Realty taking over the Killorin property between the Post Office and the municipal parking lot and the town moving into Elm Square.

John Davidson, one of two principals in the Andover realty firm, said this week that he and his partner, Phideas Dantos, bought the Killorin property Monday in an agreement that would have been nullified had the town voted to take the land.

Danton will give up its Elm St. property if it can get a firm and lasting agreement from the town for the leasing of roughly 15,000 sq. ft. of the Shaw property as parking for its tenants, Davidson said he would want no less than a 20-year lease to insure that the town could not develop the total of

Town Gets Last Chance To Curb Water Use

The town is making an out and out request that residents impose voluntary water restrictions upon themselves.

Anything short of wholesale co-operation, and "enforceable, stringent" restrictions will have to be slapped on the citizenry.

This is the latest assessment of the situation by Town Manager Richard Bowen and Water Supt. Donald C. Bassett.

Residents so far have shown little inclination to curb their use of water, the pair agreed this week. Nevertheless, both the citizens and mother nature are to be given two weeks to put in a correction. Bassett said Tuesday that Haggitt's Pond is now at a level four feet below its "full" height, actually about where he might expect it to rest at the end of summer in a non-drought season.

If it drops to a level of seven feet under par, it will mean that water pressure for fire fighting purposes will be "dangerously low," and that it will be "almost impossible" to expect that the level could be brought back to normal between seasons. This said the manager, would mean starting another summer with a sub-standard supply.

Rains over the past month, about three inches total, have been of "no appreciable benefit," Bassett said. They did have a mild effect on consumption.

What Bowen and Bassett ask in the way of voluntary restrictions is this:

1. A full stop to lawn watering.
2. An end to car washing.
3. An end to the serving of drinking water in restaurants etc. unless the patron requests it.
4. An end to the filling of swimming pools that are not equipped with re-circulators.

In addition, the town asks residents to take a sharp look at dripping faucets, faulty water tanks on toilets and any other water-operated equipment that may be using abnormal amounts of the now precious liquid.

Basic to the problem is the fact that Andover has experienced a three-year drought coupled with ever-increasing consumption. The current use rate is at levels predicted by consultants in 1959 as that anticipated for 1970.

The Board of Selectmen has and is giving consideration to both long and short-range solutions to the water situation, the manager said.

or, as he termed it, his "search for truth" is also inspiring to me for a far different reason from that of the "testament" of the power of good over evil. During these struggles, even in the face of the greatest opposition, he never gave up the ideals toward which he was striving. Like many other young people, I have been told that youth is idealistic and that I will abandon or at least modify my ideals as I become more experienced in life. I have always interpreted such statements to mean that, with age, I will become satisfied with the mediocrity of our world and stop searching for solutions to problems that are "too big for me." When confronted with this attitude, I find solace in the inspiration of Mohandas Gandhi. Here is a man who kept his ideals as he grew older; not only did he keep them but he strengthened them as he fought for them for others as well as for himself. Gandhi fought the mediocrity in his country and in his people and in his religion. He "fought" but never in the violent sense of the word, for Gandhi was the champion of nonviolence; he would not give up this ideal no matter how difficult the struggle.

What Gandhi stood for is admirable; the way in which he went about achieving his goals, without sacrificing his ideals, is inspirational. Being a pacifist, I can but admire Gandhi's nonviolent methods. Being prone to impatience, I am inspired with his perseverance with this method despite the fact that it was a slow painful way to accomplish his goal. Being of the opinion that tolerance is essential in our world of such diverse religious and ethnic and social groups, I admire Gandhi's hope for tolerance between the Moslems and the Hindus and between the Hindus and the untouchables. Being too often intolerant of people who do not hold ideals with which I agree or even do not hold ideals at all, I am inspired by Gandhi's universal tolerance, even of those who had brought about the partition of his beloved India. And, finally, being of the large group of people who consider the force of love the binding force of the world, I admire Gandhi's Satyagraha or love force which was the basis of his non-violent noncooperation. But being sometimes inclined to hate or at least to dislike greatly those who fall far short of certain standards such as the standard of decent behavior to one's fellow man, I am inspired by the genuine love which Gandhi felt for the opponent who kicked and battered him.

What was there about Mohandas Gandhi that enabled him to go beyond the admirable into the inspirational? Perhaps it was a spark of the divine. Perhaps it was his gentle strength. Perhaps both. For "Gentleness is a divine trait; nothing is so strong as gentleness, and nothing is so gentle as real strength."

help, knowing that he would sacrifice an undoubtedly easier living and that he would probably not be able to help too many people. He never realized at the time, I believe, that his dream would mushroom the way it did. I realize that my dream may never take on the proportions that his did, I have neither the oratorical his did, I have neither the oratorical nor journalistic ability of Dr. Dooley. Then, too, my approach to the alleviation of human suffering is slightly different. My dream is to help, even just a little, in the fight against cancer. I hope to have a general practice also, and I do not expect to acquire great riches - not unlike Dr. Dooley. I feel that the look of a child after one has helped stop his "hurt," or the proud smile on a father's face when he hears "It's a boy!" must be the greatest remuneration of all. I know that if I can save one life that might not have otherwise been saved, all my years of preparation will not have been futile. Perhaps this sounds extremely idealistic. It is. However, idealistic is exactly what Tom Dooley was. The fight against sickness and disease is an unending and unpublishable struggle, requiring a great amount of selfless dedication. It was this extreme dedication that made Tom Dooley great.

I think that Cardinal Spellman made a most apt statement after he had visited the dying Dooley. He said, "I tried to assure him that in his thirty-four years he had done what very few have done in the allotted Scriptural lifetime."

I pray that God will let me be, even if in only a very small way, the type of doctor that Tom Dooley was. If He will, I will be content.

MOHANDAS GANDHI: THE MAN OF GENTLE STRENGTH

Norahlyn Neumark
"Gentleness is a divine trait; nothing is so strong as gentleness, and nothing is so gentle as real strength" (Ralph Sockman, Methodist Minister).

These words describe perfectly the character of the man who most inspires me - Mohandas Gandhi. The gentleness of Gandhi is indisputable; for he is the man who spread the concept of nonviolence and love of all fellow creatures, even the untouchables, or CHILDREN OF GOD as he called them, despite the prejudice of his own Hindu religion against them. His strength is equally indisputable; he is the man, who, among other accomplishments, led India to independence and effected the greatest advancements in the struggle to end untouchability. Gandhi maintained his strength - both internal and external - through, not in spite of, his gentleness.

Unusual though his combination of strength and gentleness might be, they were not unique with him, and they are not the sole source of his inspiration for me. His character has an "extra something" which lies partly in the fact that, as Betty Schechter put it, "His life was a testament to his faith in the power of good over evil."

This "testament" is particularly vital to me. I have seen the prejudice of one race or one religion or one ethnic or economic group against another remain beyond all justification and reason; and I have wondered whether good will ever triumph over evil; I have read of and seen the indifference of one person to the troubles and suffering of a fellow creature, and I have doubted that good would ever triumph over evil; I have seen hatred and what is far worse I have felt hatred of another human being, and I have feared that good would never triumph over evil. Now I need only look to Gandhi's example to put to rest my questions, my doubts, and my fears, for his life was the continual triumph of good over some of the greatest evils of our times. Gandhi's struggle against evil

General Court Subject Voters League Book

Several hundred free copies of a new booklet, "The Great and General Court: the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts", published by the League of Women Voters Education Fund and compiled by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, are being distributed now in Andover according to Mrs. Jerald Cornwell, president of the Andover league.

This booklet, the result of a two-year study of the Massachusetts legislature by League members, has been given to Richard Bowen, town manager, the Andover Selectmen, League contributors, Andover School Committee, Abbott Academy, Phillips Academy, The Townsman, Junior and Senior High School principals to pass on to their school libraries and social studies departments, and Memorial Hall Library.

Copies were also sent to Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Leverett Saltonstall and Representative F. Bradford Morse in Washington and to state Sen. James P. Rurak and Representatives Arthur Williams, Albert P. Pettoruto and William Longworth.

Mrs. Laurence J. Kipp, president of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, recently wrote "It is the league's hope that the publication and its wide free distribution will make citizens of our state more aware of the organization and problems of our legislature, and that it will strengthen the communication between the citizen and his government."

In lay language the booklet covers such subjects as constitutional provisions regarding the legislature, the operation of the General Court, the steps a bill goes through in order to become a law, the varied aspects of the legislator's job and pressure group activity in the legislature. It concludes with a series of appraising questions about the length of the Massachusetts legislative sessions, the system of free petition, the committee system, the size of the legislature, and the salaries paid its members.

During the study which resulted in the publication of "The Great and General Court...", league members studied all aspects of the legislative body. They explored the Massachusetts constitution, read widely on historical and present-day legislative procedures in the commonwealth and her sister states and interviewed legislators and other members of our state government.

The initial free distribution of this pamphlet and the selling of the remainder at a nominal cost is made possible by the contributions of several corporations, foundations and individuals. Their gifts form the non-profit League of Women Voters Education Fund, established so that local and state leagues can publish material or develop educational courses in the field of government.

A copy of "The Great and General Court: the legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts" is available for circulation at Memorial Hall Library.

Copies may be obtained by calling Mrs. George Edmonds.

A Tantalizing Prospect

There is the tantalizing prospect that we may be able to have our cake and eat it too!

Weekend developments led to the Board of Selectmen's withdrawal Monday of the Warrant article pushing for acquisition of the Killorin property on Main St. and substitution of the possibility that the town may yet be able to put its new municipal office building on the site of the old Square and Compass Club.

Some at Town Meeting chose to interpret the Board's last minute request for a delay in action that would have finalized location of the town hall as a sign of indecision. Not so.

Anyone who has followed the deliberations of the Selectmen in their consideration of a site knows that virtually every conversation turned at some point to the seeming futility and impracticality of further thoughts about the Elm Square property earmarked for construction of the Standard International Building.

For long after it seemed significant, the Planning Board was stubborn in its preference for the lost site and a hard core of interested citizens persistent in their berating of earlier officials for shortsightedness in letting the location slip through their fingers.

Despite preferences, however, the Board made its move to go after the Killorin property and put the Town Hall on or adjacent to the municipal parking lot. Why? Because it seemed seizure of a property established as the site for a million dollar development would certainly lead to a costly court case, and because it was reluctant to pluck what could be a tasty, tax producing plum.

Now the town has a second chance at the plot, if it wants it. And it is upon this axis that the upcoming discussion of Danton Realty's offer should revolve.

Make no mistake, it will take money to create the sort of ageless setting for a town hall that many envision at Elm Square, probably upwards of $200,000 if you lump in the cost of relocating High Street and acquiring the Barnard Elms property which sits overlooking the small town-owned park at the juncture of High, Elm and Main Streets.

Granted, it is not absolutely necessary to relocate High Street or take the Barnard Elms site. There is room for a town hall right where the Square and Compass Club sat. But if the idea is to establish a focal point for a revitalized Center, one "idyllic" enough to stimulate face lifting all along Main Street, then these two moves are requisite to the project.

What this sort of thing is worth to the townspeople must be the determining factor in whether or not to pursue the Danton offer. This is what the Selectmen must concern themselves with and what the residents must speak out about in debating the pros and cons of sticking to the Shaw property or switching to the Square.

Idle speculation about "What's in it for John Davidson and Phideas Dantos?" will not lead to a straight line decision about the central issue: Where do we want our Town Hall?

We have a top-notch town counsel to protect our interests in assessing the legalities and the fairness of the deal proposed.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: The Andover Patriotic Holiday Committee wishes to express its appreciation to the members of your staff for their cooperation in publishing full details concerning the annual Memorial Day Services and Parade on Monday, May 31, 1965.

Your willing cooperation to find space, sometimes on very short notice, contributed much to this solemn tribute to our departed comrades.

Once again, our thanks, and if we can be of assistance to you, at any time, please call on us, Elmer S. Ober, Agent Veterans' Service Office

To the Editor of the Townsman: Having been an observer at the recent School Committee meeting held Tuesday, June 15, I wish to compliment you for the very fine objective reporting of this meeting in this week's Townsman. Interested and accurately informed citizens who keep in touch with their elected representatives are important ingredients in the efforts of some of our school board to support ever higher standards for our school system. It is heartening to have you give much time and effort to thorough coverage of the activities of our School Committee and Administration. Thank You! Mrs. S. Leonard Kent 57 Salem Street

To the Editor of the Townsman: The fact that Mr. Erickson feels no compunction to apologize for the rudeness of some of his administrators and teachers and to reprimand them for their behavior at the school committee meeting, several weeks ago, should finally indicate to all of us that the respect of the people and "the good of the child" (for these are closely related) are no longer of paramount concern to our school system!

This deplorable lack of consideration is evident from the top on down in about every school in town! It percolates and permeates to such an alarming degree that those few of us who have had the audacity to question and challenge the authority or contest the right of the educational "experts" to meddle and interfere with the child's and the parents' rights and to undermine the authority of the home, are intimidated to silence!

How? through the most tender pressure point that we possess - our children!

Our mass indifference and fear has courted this kind of petty dictatorship and, through majority indolence we have sanctioned every rotten apple that has dropped from the corrupted tree of inertia!

It is because most prefer to skate along superficially that we repeatedly allow the abuse of the individual for the comfort of the group! It seems no longer socially acceptable for parents to create turmoil in matters of their child's education. Few dare brave the stares of the many even when the need cries out with evidence!

We elect people to represent us but we cannot take the extra step to assure that they can and do represent us adequately. We will not even defend those who do our fighting for us by helping rid them of the rot that continues to clutter up the committee in which they must function!

The school committee is the fist and the teeth of the people as well as their voice! It has all the power that it needs to make that voice heard and obeyed! It is our voices, collected with consideration, intelligence, and wisdom that tells our hired experts what our will and desires are. It most certainly should not continue to contain apple polishers, administration yes men and political ladder climbers!

WEST CHURCH RETREAT

Twelve members of the Senior High Pilgrim Fellowship of West Church made a weekend retreat at Lake Sunapee, N. H. at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Porter.

Accompanying the young people were Rev. Bruce Van Blair, Mr. and Mrs. William Moldt, Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Porter.

It took the magical touch of Carleton E. Temporary chairman Edmond E. Hammond appointed a nominating committee of Rev. Frederick B. Noss, School Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman and school board member, William A. Doherty.

The School Committee has appointed a standing sub-committee on a building program. The new three-man group will survey all school needs in cooperation with the superintendent, the board decided. Miss Anna M. Greeley, chairman, suggested the move, pointing out that it seemed wise for the board to do its own research into school problems.

She also urged the step as a means of closer cooperation with the Planning board.

TOWN MEETING GETS QUORUM

what is now the municipal parking lot for some other purpose and leave his tenants high and dry. A longer lease would be unrealistic, he said, since it is impossible now to predict just how the town will develop.

Davidson made it clear that he would prefer outright purchase of the extra land he needed to make the Killorin location adequate to serve the million dollar building his company plans. But competitive bidding would be a legal requirement, eliminating the certainty of Danton acquisition.

Asked why he and Dantos are willing to release a prime, mid-town location, Davidson gave two reasons, the first involving a business advantage.

As of this moment, Davidson believes his firm would have less trouble filling first floor retail or commercial space in a building located in the post office-shopping center - parking lot area. This is, he said, a short term decision because he fully expects the other end of town to develop as a more attractive retail center in the next 10 years.

The second reason: knowing the expressed preference of many officials for the Elm St. site, the pair feels it is something they would like to do for the town if the trade doesn't cost them anything. This includes the right to lease enough land to make up the difference between the some 31,000 sq. ft. available at Elm Square and the 14,500 sq. ft. of Killorin land.

It is expected to cost an estimated $125,000 (less the price of any lease arrangement) to acquire the balance of the high-ground lot where the Square & Compass Club stood (the new Masonic Temple sits on a narrow strip at the rear of the property.)

It will take roughly $10,000 to relocate High Street so that it feeds traffic onto Elm rather than into the Square, and it will take upwards of $62,600 (the assessed value) to buy the Barnard Elms property which faces the small town park wedged between High and Main Streets.

If the town decides against the site, Davidson says his company intends to go ahead on Elm St., leaving the way open for the town to revert to its plan for acquisition of the former Killorin property.

Standard International, already contracted as a tenant for the Danton building, has not expressed a preference for either site, but is waiting to see what results from the town's study of this latest proposal. The corporation definitely intends to stay in Andover, President Daniel Hogan said this week.

Heated Discussion

Town Meeting got into its most heated discussion over an article which would have authorized the town to take competitive bids for a piece of land it owns on Lupine Rd.

Harold Rafton, a member of the Andover Village Improvement Society's land committee, opposed the sale and suggested the plot be conserved as a neighborhood play area. He said the area in question (behind the South Church Cemetery) was given to AVIS which later gave it to the town for parking when traffic at the train station was still a problem.

Further objection to sale of the property came from George Westhaver, an officer of South Church, who said his congregation "would be out in force" to object to any commercial development of the location.

Rafton's park suggestion brought applause from voters, but Manager Richard Bowen said he had "serious doubts" about the suitability of the site for a playground because of the hazard for children involved in crossing Lupine and School Sts.

The article, overwhelmingly defeated, was put in the warrant Bowen said, at the request of one or more businessmen interested in bidding for it.

Cleared Handily

The article authorizing the manager and Selectmen to apply for an interest-free federal loan to cover the cost of plans and specs for a new elementary school cleared the meeting unanimously.

The same general approval was given an article which will permit the town to release easements over Jaycole Realty Inc. land for $1. Easements over the Main Street property are no longer necessary now that Rogers Brook has been routed through a concrete conduit underneath the land.

A vote was taken to accept as a gift an easement over land owned by Salvatore J. and Elaine DeSalvo on Lowell St. A town drainage pipe, for which we have no easement, now runs through the center of the property. DeSalvo wants to develop the land and will relocate the pipe to one side of the acreage.

One article which helped bring out the quorum was withdrawn before it could be considered. Charles Hatch, attorney for Village Colonials of Wakefield made the withdrawal. The article was for the rezoning of some land off Morton St. for construction of seven four-apartment units. The firm had said earlier that it would withdraw the article if the Planning Board came into Town Meeting with a negative opinion on the project. The board was ready with such an opinion.

The quorum had dwindled by the time a late-hour proposal was made for appointment of a committee to study other forms of town government, especially representative town government. Arthur Neumark spoke for the motion and Town Counsel Frederick O'Brien against. O'Brien said he felt it was improper to bring such a plan before a small, special Town Meeting when the same suggestion was soundly defeated last March. The lack of a quorum prevented a vote.

MRS. TOD RICHARD LOEBEL

LOEBEL - COOK

Judith Eberhardt Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Makepeace Cook, Hadley, was married at an evening ceremony June 12 to Tod Richard Loebel, ensign, United States Navy Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loebel, Topsfield, Rd., Boxford.

The Loebels are former Andover residents and Mr. Loebel is plant manager for Raytheon-Andover. The candlelight service was held at Abbey Memorial Chapel, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley. Rev. J. Edison Pike of Christ Church, Andover, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau d'orange with an overlay of Alencon lace forming the gentle scoop neckline and bracelet-length tapered sleeves. Appliques of the lace pattern were strewn over the straight line front of the gown and two appliqued panels formed the Watteau-type chapel train. The bride's bouffant shoulder length veil was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and her bouquet was a cascade of white daisies, white roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

The maid of honor was Miss Linda Smith of Harwinton, Conn., a classmate of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Kim Howell, Califon, N. J., a classmate; Miss Bettina Broske, Oyster Bay, N. Y.; Miss Phyllis Warner, Fairfield, Conn., a cousin of the bride; Miss Christine Loebel and Miss Carol Loebel of Boxford, sisters of the groom.

The attendants wore identical gowns of light blue Cupion with scoop necklines and brief sleeves. An inserted band of deeper blue emphasized the Empire bodices, and decorator bows at the back had streamers flowing to the floor-length hems of the skirts. Their pouf veils were caught to a circlet crown with a tiny tailored bow. The maid of honor carried a basket of yellow daisies and white roses and the bridesmaids had smaller baskets of daisies and carnations.

Donald Mackey, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a classmate and fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was best man, Gordon M. Cook Jr. of Hadley, brother of the bride, was head usher. Other ushers were Richard E. Cook of Hadley, brother of the bride, and Richard L. Muller, Bedford, N. Y., Peter P. Wintersteiner, New Brunswick, N. J., and David A. Penner, West Hyattsville, Md., all fraternity brothers of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cook wore a light blue street-length dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink-tipped roses. The groom's mother wore a pale green street-length dress with matching accessories and yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Hopkins Academy, Hadley. She received her BA degree, cum laude, earlier this month from Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley. She will be employed as a research assistant in biochemistry at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Loebel is a graduate of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and from Amherst College. He received his commission from the officer candidate school in Newport, R. I., last March and has been assigned to duty in Washington with the Navy Command Systems support activity.

The couple will live at 5809 Fisher Rd., Oxon Hill, Md.

Morse Raps Handling Of Dominican Events

Congressman F. Bradford Morse told a Chamber of Commerce audience Thursday that he thinks the Johnson Administration deserves criticism for its handling of the Dominican Republic uprising.

The Fifth district congressman said he agrees that U. S. intervention was necessary, but he scored the President for his failure to notify the Organization of American States. This single act could have softened Latin American criticism of our unilateral action, Morse said.

He spoke to members and guests of the Chamber attending the annual meeting at Andover Country Club.

In his sharp rebuke, Morse, who is a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee told the businessmen it is conceivable that the U. S. action "created more Communists in Latin American than Castro's efforts could have created in many, many years."

He also found fault with the Administration's weak explanation of why it was considered necessary to rush 21,000 men into the small republic. Admitting it was "probably necessary," Morse nevertheless expressed the opinion that Washington did not adequately justify its use of such a force. Key Chamber awards for the year were presented to Contractor C. Lincoln Giles and Charles W. DeBell, chairman of the Industrial Development Commission.

Giles, who received the President's Award, was recognized for outstanding service to the Chamber and the community while DeBell was given the annual non-member award for his and his committee's work in attracting new industry to Andover.

A third citation was given Mrs. Marion Carpenter for her "outstanding service" with the organization's board of directors from which she retires this year.

During a five-minute look at Andover's future, Town Manager Richard Bowen introduced "Tobe Andover", a replica of the space-helmeted Pilgrim he suggests as a symbol for the town image. What he proposes, said the manager, is a community with its feet deep in tradition and its head in the 20th Century.

In one of his final acts as president, Archibald D. McLaren turned over to Phillip K. Allen, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, an engraved plaque listing the names of the two men most recently chosen by the board as town "Employees of the Year." Listed are Francis P. Markey, 1963 winner of the title, and Walter H. Baker, 1964. The plaque, a gift from the Chamber, is to be hung in Town Hall.

Other speakers on the program included Harry A. Loebel, Raytheon plant manager and president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, and Charles R. Dunklee executive vice president of the GLCC.

Taking office at the buffet meeting were officers elected in a mail ballot:

Austin E. Anderson, president; Eugene A. Bernardin Jr., vice president; Vartkes Sohigian, secretary; Paul J. McVey, treasurer; Mary Ann Bonelli and George Haseltine, directors, two years; and Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., and Atty. Richard M. Sullivan, directors, one-year.

Ohio Degree For Student

Miss Frances Anne Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Jordan, 180 Chestnut St., was graduated June 14 at the 106th Commencement ceremonies at Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio. She was awarded a bachelor of arts degree.

During her four years at Lake Erie, Miss Jordan majored in English. She was secretary of her class and a dorm council representative in her junior year, dorm head and preceptorial associate in her senior year.

She spent eleven weeks of the winter term of her junior year studying at the University of Valencia, Spain.

Council Issues Its Invitation

A committee from the Andover Council of Churches delivered an invitation for full membership to the Unitarian Universalist Church last week.

Rev. Keith Munson, pastor, has said he will submit the invitation to his church board for a ruling on whether it can be handled by the board or will require congregational action.

At issue is full membership for the Unitarians under the revised constitution of the Council which carries a preamble which has the effect of restricting membership to churches that can or will accept Christ as "Lord and Savior." Disagreements within the Council over the handling of the Unitarian's application for affiliation, submitted and tabled while the constitution was under revision, have precipitated a situation which may lead to the resignation of West Parish Church.

That congregation voted late last month to offer its services as mediator and to make its continued membership in the church organization dependent upon the success of compromise talks.

Memorial Hall Library

Coming Events

JUNE

28 Summer reading program for children begins.
Registration for this year's eighth grade graduates in Adult Department.
Exhibit in Main Reading Room.
Music and Museums, all week.

Summer Reading

"Build a Bookshelf of Favorites" is the theme of the summer reading program for boys and girls who attended school during the past year in a grade from one to six. Club meetings will take place at Memorial Hall Library every Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock for grades 1-2-3. Grades 4-5-6 will meet every Thursday afternoon, also at 2 p.m. Both clubs will have the Children's Room for their club headquarters.

Mrs. Margaret Berry will conduct meetings during July and Miss Elizabeth Russell will do the honors in August. At these meetings the children will report and discuss the books they have read. For each, they will add a colored label to their "bookshelf". If a child is unable to attend one of these meetings, he is welcome to do the reading and report on it either to Miss Russell or Mrs. Berry.

Booklists suggesting good stories will be given at the time a child registers for reading club. So get early start and enjoy a whole summer of reading fun.

Summer Hours

Last Saturday was the last open Saturday until after summer vacations - next fall. During this period the Main Reading Room is open weekdays from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. The Children's Room will be open, also on weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The open hours at Ballardvale branch are from 2 to 5 and from 6 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays.

All departments are closed on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays until further notice. So stock up on weekend reading materials between Monday and Friday.

Summer Festivals

The many excellent music festivals and summer programs within driving distance of Andover offer a rich assortment of listening opportunities to local residents. The library is featuring brochures, time, place and program information including addresses should you wish to write for tickets in advance.

Museums also offer special programs and educational summer classes of interest to homecraftsmen, weekend artists and those who have to wait for vacations to undertake various artistic hobbies. Information from New England museums offering this sort of program is available in the Main Reading Room at the library now.

If you have a special sort of summer hobby, ask about it. At the desk there is a collection of "Summer Opportunities" which may have what you want. The opportunities range from camps to classes and cover most age groups.

Vacation Loans

Did you think you could take a book from the library and keep it two and a half months - welcome? That is the size of the Vacation Loan Period this week.

Books borrowed now, if you ask for the extended loan period, need not be returned until September 15. Any book, adult, young adult, or children's may be taken out on this basis. All you need do is select your reading which is not limited except that it cannot be a new book or one on a reserved list; then ask for vacation loan period when you reach the charge desk. The privilege is not automatic, so be sure to ask for it.

Children may take as many as ten books on this basis. Adults and young adults may have as many as they would like to take along.

Service to Blind

An unusual club in Norfolk, Mass. is benefitting an Andover citizen this week. A library patron, who needs to read books by listening to them instead of looking at them, borrowed HOW TO INCREASE PLANTS by the horticultural authority, Alfred C. Hottes. The book has been sent to the Tape Club of the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Norfolk. There it is being read and put on tape. When it is all recorded the book and tape will be returned to the library patron. He will keep the tape and return the book to Memorial Hall. The Lawrence chapter of the Associated Blind of Massachusetts is interested in furthering the program.

One need of blind citizens is listening equipment so that more of them may enjoy keeping up by sound, if not by sight, with their hobbies and, indeed, with the world. Any book in the library can be taped.

In the Tape Club are men who are inmates of the institution. They give their free time to this cause, and receive no pay except the satisfaction of doing a worthwhile service on their own.

Memories Fuzzy On Lupine Rd.

For the record, the Selectmen's recollection of a majority "vote" on the inclusion of an article in the warrant for Monday's town meeting seeking permission for the sale of a plot of town land on Lupine Rd. is fuzzy.

At the meeting where the warrant was set, Selectman William Stewart questioned where the article came from, who was sponsoring it and why he and fellow Selectman Robert A. Watters had not known ahead of time that it was to be inserted for Town Meeting action.

Similar questions were raised Monday by Marco Pettoruto who asked from the floor of the meeting which Selectmen made up the majority approving the article. After a huddle, board members on the platform indicated that Stewart and Watters had voted against the article.

This is not in accord with the records of the meeting. In fact, according to the minutes, the order of the articles was voted with Stewart seconding the motion before the discussion of the Lupine Rd. article took place. The vote of the board on the articles and their order in the warrant was unanimous.

Manager Richard Bowen explained at the board meeting, and again Monday, that the article was inserted in the warrant because requests had come to him and at least one member of the board (Cronin) requesting the vote and a chance at competitive bids. Among those interested, a local trucker with facilities now located outside Andover. Earlier discussion was not possible, Bowen said, because the request for the article came just prior to the closing of the warrant.

The article was defeated by an overwhelming majority. (See Town Meeting story).

Dean Of Clergy Plans October Retirement

Rev. Frederick B. Noss, dean of the Andover clergy and pastor of South Congregational Church has announced that he will retire Oct. 1, 1966, the date of his 35th anniversary with the Andover congregation.

He announced his intentions in a letter read to the congregation at Sunday's worship service.

Rev. Noss first came to South Church in 1929 as associate minister during the pastorate of Rev. Frank R. Shipman. He expected to leave a year later for service as a missionary in Japan, but was thwarted by the financial depression which followed the stock market crash of that year. He accepted instead the opportunity to remain at South Church as its installed minister, the 15th in its 254 year history.

Only the first and second pastors, Rev. Samuel Phillips who served almost 60 years and Rev. Jonathan French, who was with the church about 37 years, remained with the congregation longer than Rev. Noss.

Missionary Parents

The minister was born in Sandai, Japan in 1901, the son of missionary parents and one of a number of children. He was educated at Mercersburg Academy, Princeton University (1923) Lancaster (Pa.) Theological Seminary (1927), and Harvard University Graduate School of Theology.

Rev. Noss' first position was with the Boxford Congregational Church where he was minister from 1927 to 1929.

In Andover he was active as an organizer of the Andover Council of Churches and at one time, its president. Before state law permitted released time Christian education courses, he pressed for such religious instruction for young people and was instrumental in organizing classes and teaching them. For 11 years he was instructor of religion and philosophy at Bradford Junior College.

From the time of his early ministry, Rev. Noss has interested himself in social reforms. He was active in relief work before town agencies existed to handle such services and he worked for the improvement of store hours etc. prior to passage of wages and hours legislation.

Church Expansion

Within the church, he has shepherded South Church through a period of expansion which has included the construction of an addition dedicated in 1956, the earlier installation of a new organ and construction of two parsonages.

The veteran minister traced his career and outlined his future in this statement Sunday:

"On Oct. 1, 1929, my family and I arrived in Andover from Boxford where I had been minister of the First Congregational Church. I was to be associate minister of the South Church with Rev. Frank R. Shipman for one year, after which he planned to retire and I expected to go to Japan, where I was born, as a missionary.

"However, the financial depression cancelled my plans, and the South Church asked me to continue as its installed minister and teacher, and I have been here ever since.

"It has been a long time. We have had many adventures together. We have suffered poverty and affluence, war and peace, and we have made the journey from the end of the horse and buggy age to the beginning of a new and unknown space age.

"Mrs. Noss, our three daughters, and I have acquired many very beautiful memories of people and places, made particularly dear to us by the experiences we have shared with you and your predecessors when the love of God has intervened in our lives, soothed our troubles, encouraged us in weakness, and caused to walk with us some altogether lovely saints.

"The longest book, however, must end, not because we want it to, but because the author of every human story wants it to. There have been times when I have wondered in great distress why He hasn't done so much sooner, as I have no doubt you have, too, but He brought us together, and we have stood by each other until He has made His will known.

Future Plans

"His time is always the best time of all. Up to now He has always told me, 'No,' when I have thought of leaving. This time there is only encouragement, and I think the lay membership of the Church agrees with me in this feeling.

"I am not afraid for myself or for you. If there is work for me elsewhere that He would have me do I shall do it, but I have no other

"I am therefore tendering my resignation to become effective on the first day of October, 1966, a little more than a year from now, and ask that you call an ecclesiastical council to meet shortly before that time to dissolve the pastoral relationship which binds us together.

"I commend to you and urge to trust the officers and committees which have charge of the church now. They will have time to assess the position of South Church, project its future and choose a successor. They will act wisely and well.

"Wishing you grace, mercy and peace from God our Father and from our Lord Jesus, most faithfully yours, Frederick B. Noss.
